United States Attorney TIEKEN advised that on February 16, 1961, Federal Judge J. ## FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date April 12, 1961

CAPONE said he was the owner of the Suburban Cigarette Service, 8940 West Ogden, Brookfield, Illinois, and added that there were no other owners. He did say, however, that the majority of the cigarette machines owned by this firm were mortgaged.

CAPONE advised that he owned no other property or real estate in the State of Illinois nor did he own any lodge or tavern in or near Mercer, Wisconsin. He said that he was not an owner or co-owner of a restaurant located at 3900 South Harlem, Stickney, Illinois, but said that this restaurant, which he believed was called "The Flame", was owned by his brother, ALBERT RAIOLA, true name ALBERT CAPONE. He said that RAIOLA had three or four partners in this venture but stated that he did not know the partners' names. CAPONE said that this restaurant was formerly known as "Rosie's". He was asked if he knew a man called [redacted] who formerly operated a large "book" at "Rosie's". CAPONE said that he knew this man well, but did not know his last name, although this individual had worked for him 25 years ago. He added that [redacted] was an associate of his brother, ALBERT RAIOLA, and was connected with RAIOLA's restaurant in some capacity.

CAPONE stated that he had had no interest in gambling as a business since 1937. He said that he had just returned from Cocoa, Florida, where he had stayed at an apartment which he rented for $50.00 a week. He declined to furnish the address of this apartment nor did he say what name he had used in the rental of this apartment. He did indicate that he had not used his true name since he did not wish to have reporters bothering him. He said that his trip to Florida was a yearly event in which he combined a vacation and treatments for his neck and back which had been injured in an automobile accident.

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI (92-3001)

DATE: 10/6/61

FROM : SAC, MILWAUKEE (94-319)

SUBJECT: RALPH JAMES CAPONE, aka
AR

OO: MILWAUKEE

Enclosed for the Bureau is a news item clipped from the Milwaukee Journal of October 1, 1961, relating to the Subject's status with the Wisconsin Department of Taxation. It appears that Subject will be investigated for failing to file state income tax returns.

Although it appears that nothing was done by the State of Wisconsin at the time, this office called attention to Subject's income tax status as early as January 29, 1958, when [redacted] Assessor of Incomes, Wisconsin Department of Taxation, Eau Claire, Wisconsin, was interviewed. [redacted] said that Subject had filed returns for the years 1948 to 1951 but thereafter claimed to be a non-resident. The Department of Taxation found that CAPONE purchased a non-resident hunting license. They were unable to find that he owned any property in Wisconsin.

This is for the Bureau's information. It does not appear that the contemplated action by the State of Wisconsin constitutes a reason to reopen instant case.

next question, Capone interrupted:

"And I spent quite a lot of money in the place when she had it. I'd say it cost me a few thousand dollars."

Capone said Miss Hobbs ran the saloon in 1954 and 1955 and that creditors foreclosed the property in 1956.

At the hearing Capone admitted that he had about $20,000 in cash but asked to keep its whereabouts secret. He said he was afraid "somebody might get there before I do."

He also testified that he another man's name except "maybe for insurance reasons and so forth."

He said he had, at the time, 12 or 13 more monthly payments of $113 to make on the car.

Slets said another hearing would be held in the discovery proceedings in the near future.

gregate more than seven months of the income year within the state shall be deemed to be residing within the state for the purpose of determining liability for income taxes and surtaxes."

Residency Denial Told

Records in the state tax office in Eau Claire show that Capone paid taxes of $33.52 in 1945, $25.48 in 1946, $26.46 in 1947, $20.53 in 1948, $37.29 in 1949, $37.29 in 1950 and $10.10 in 1951.

L. I. Hotvedt, state assessor of income at Eau Claire, said his office asked Capone to file a return for 1952, but he said Capone told them that he was a resident of Illinois.

"I'm sure we followed up," Hotvedt said, "but he alleged to be a nonresident."

The Eau Claire office did not ask Capone to file returns in the subsequent years, Hotvedt said.

"All I can say is that we asked for a 1952 return, and he said he was a resident of Chicago. We have had no information since that he re-established (Wisconsin) residence."

A check with the other three state tax offices in Madison, Milwaukee and Appleton showed that Capone had not filed returns in those cities.

Last March, when he announced a crackdown on state income tax evaders, Gronouski said, "We are not interested in persecuting people. We are interested only in applying the harshest measures against those who are flagrantly, openly and with obvious intent evading payment of their taxes."

Brother Called Owner

At the discovery hearing Capone said the lodge was originally owned by his brother, James, who was also known as Richard Hart. He said Hart obtained the money for the property from their mother, Mrs. Theresa Capone.

Hart, Capone testified, signed the property over to their mother. He said she left it to Mrs. Maritoto in her will.

Hart and Mrs. Capone died in 1952, Capone said.

Capone also testified that he was the manager and received one-third of the profits of the Rex hotel and Billy's bar in Mercer from 1944 to 1951.

Purchase Role Denied

He said the two businesses were owned by the late Walter Liebner, vice-president of the Milwaukee Solvay Coke Co. of Milwaukee, and the late A. L. Fell, owner of a trucking company in Chicago.

Capone denied having had anything to do with the purchase of the two establishments, but when federal prosecutor Silets asked him if he knew what the purchase price was, he replied, "$60,000."

"Do you know how the down payment was made?" Silets asked Capone.

"That I don't know," he replied.

"Do you know that Mr. Liebner produced some $20,000 in five, ten and twenty dollar bills?" Silets asked next.

"I Wasn't There"

"I don't know," Capone said. "I wasn't there when they made the deal."

Later in the hearing Silets asked: "To obtain the third interest in the profits did you invest any money?"

"Not a nickel," Capone said.

"Mr. Capone," Silets asked at another point, "did you ever pay any money on a note that was outstanding from Fell and Liebner for the purchase of the Rex hotel?"

"Rex—no," he replied.

"The answer is no?" Silets asked.

"No," Capone answered.

Paid Bills, He Says

Silets asked Capone whether he remembered purchasing a cashier's check for $1,000. Capone admitted that he had but said it was used to pay outstanding bills which the two corporations had run up while Fell and Liebner were out of the state.

Capone said the two men later repaid the $1,000 to him.

Capone admitted that he loaned Liebner $10,000 so that Liebner could invest in the Baraboo Range Transportation Co., a bus firm in Baraboo.

Capone said he did not know when he loaned the money to Liebner except that it was sometime in World War II. He said Liebner paid him back "several months later."

He denied having any interest in the company, now or earlier.

"Never Had No Interest"

When Silets began questioning Capone about the Bowery club in Hurley, Wis., Capone replied:

"Before you go any further, I never had no interest any place in Hurley, then now, or ever."

"Then your answer to that is no?" Silets asked.

"Right," Capone said.

"Have you ever had an interest in that organization?" Silets asked.

"No place in Hurley," Capone said.

Silets questioned Capone about the Sky Lawn, a tavern on highway 51, near Mercer. Capone said the place was owned by his nephew, Sherman Hart, and a partner, Robert Voss.

Worked at Restaurants

[Sherman Hart formerly worked at the Black Steer restaurant, 10725 W. Greenfield av., West Allis; the El Dorado Supper club, 10845 W. Blue Mound rd., Wauwatosa, and the old El Moroccan restaurant here.]

Capone denied having any interest in the Sky Lawn.

Silets also asked about Waukesha Waters, Inc., a firm Capone operated for about seven or eight years before it went out of business during World War II.

Capone said he realized nothing from the sale of the business but said he drew a salary from it while it was in existence.

"Gave Her Few Dollars"

When asked about the Homestead, a tavern in Lac du Flambeau, Wis., Capone denied that he had any interest in it but admitted that he knew its owner, Madeline Hobbs.

"Did you advance the funds to Miss Hobbs to purchase that property?" Silets asked.

"I didn't advance her nothing. I gave her a few dollars to help her out when she needed that. I paid a few bills."

"Did you give the down payment of $10,000 to Miss Hobbs to purchase the property?" Silets asked.

"Well, I wouldn't say I did," Capone answered. "I probably cost me a few dollars I gave her to help her pay some bills."

Before Silets could finish his

Wisconsin Officials
Trying to Find Why
He Hasn't Filed Return Since 1951

By THOMAS G. LUBENOW
Of The Journal Staff

State officials have begun an investigation to determine why Ralph (Bottles) Capone has not filed a Wisconsin income tax return since 1951.

Capone is a brother of the late Scarface Al Capone.

In testimony in federal court in Chicago, Capone has admitted that he lives in Mercer (Iron county) "most of the time" but contends that he is still a resident of Illinois.

He admitted at the federal hearing that he had had no permanent Illinois address since 1952. He said his business address was 8940 Ogden av., Brookfield, Ill.

Paid Tax of $190.67

Capone filed income tax returns with the Eau Claire office of the Wisconsin department of taxation from 1945 through 1951 but has not filed since then.

Ralph (Bottles) Capone

In the seven years he did file records show, he paid a total tax of $190.67.

When told of this by a reporter, John A. Gronouski, state tax commissioner, said:

"If there's evidence that this man is a resident of Wisconsin, he's in trouble. We'll put a man on it right away. I'll certainly be interested in this one."

$87,000 Owed, US Says

Capone appeared in the federal court in Chicago in June at a discovery hearing to determine whether he had any assets with which to pay federal income taxes he has owed since 1928.

The government contends that Capone owes $87,000 in taxes for the years 1926 through 1928. Interest has run his bill up to $240,715.

At the hearing Capone testified that he lived at the Raycap lodge on Big Martha lake and that his address was box 126, Mercer.

He said the lodge belonged to his sister, Mrs. Malfado Maritoto, of Chicago, "and I stay there and I pay the bills. I maintain the place . . . because I live there most of the time."

Capone said he moved to the lodge in April, 1942, just after it was constructed, and had lived there almost continuously since then. And, he said, "different members of the family lived there from time to time."

"Made My Home There"

Harvey M. Silets, an assistant United States attorney in Chicago, then asked him: "But you occupied the property from the time of its construction?"

Capone answered: "Well, practically, because I was in business there for a while, and I made my home there."

He also admitted buying furniture for the house and that he had paid taxes on it.

State law has defined residence for state tax purposes this way:

"Every natural person domiciled in the state and every natural person who maintains a permanent place of abode within the state or spends in the ag-

It is pointed out that Chicago was office of origin in instant matter up to July, 1964. Referenced Milwaukee communication dated 9/30/64, pointed out that subject was advanced in years and in poor health, and that the inactivity of CAPONE and review of file indicated that no additional investigation was warranted at that time. It is pointed out that Milwaukee has continued to keep abreast of CAPONE's activities and until recently his status has remained the same. It is felt that at this time instant report will bring the matter into a current status and that current investigation is being conducted to resolve any points that might be of interest. In view of this the investigative period is in excess of 90 days.

Synopsis: RALPH CAPONE continues to reside in Mercer, Wisconsin area. It is alleged that he has married [REDACTED] b6
[REDACTED] It is alleged that CAPONE is selling b7C his residence and moving out of the Mercer area as

On May 20, 1965, MI T-1 advised that CAPONE and [redacted]

CAPONE's worth is not known, nor is it believed to be great. His mother is believed to have had a lot of money at one time, probably from AL CAPONE. In recent years RALPH CAPONE had cigarette machines in Illinois, as well as a ballroom or dance hall of some kind on Harlem in Chicago, the name of which may have been Dreamland.

The informant is of the opinion that CAPONE had no great influence among the hoodlums in Chicago, but that they let him run the cigarette machines and the ballroom to provide himself with a living. However, the government allegedly took his assets away from him about three years ago.

Informant had not heard that CAPONE was about [redacted]
[redacted]

Previously CAPONE warded off all marriage possibilities because he only had a separation from his wife and not a divorce. He used this to his advantage to defend himself against grasping women. b6 b7C

MI T-3 said CAPONE was never an aggressive person, but was rather a "fence rider."

An article appearing in the "Chicago Tribune," Sunday edition, October 17, 1965, captioned, "U. S. Will Seek Tax Deposition From Capone," stated that the attorneys for the Department of Justice said they were traveling to Mercer, Wisconsin, that week to obtain a deposition from RALPH "BOTTLES" CAPONE, age 69, brother of the late AL CAPONE, in a government income tax suit against RALPH CAPONE. The article stated that CAPONE was supposed to appear in the Federal District Court the previous Monday to give his deposition, but that CAPONE's lawyer, RICHARD GORMAN, was unable to reach the subject.

The article went on to say that the onetime gangster, 72, and his lawyer spent a half-hour with ROBERT A. MALONEY, special assistant to the Attorney General. CAPONE said he had no property, no income and no prospects of inheriting any money and that he resides with a sister at Mercer, Wisconsin. Before leaving CAPONE presented the government with a bill for $76, covering his transportation to and from Mercer, plus lodging in a hotel for one night. The newspaper article characterized CAPONE as looking like an old, abandoned man as he trudged along South Dearborn Street in Chicago on Friday, November 19, 1965. It stated that CAPONE wore a shabby brown topcoat, a shapeless brown hat and a blue suit with old-style wide lapels and that his shoes needed shining.

The following information was noted in the October 27, 1967 edition of the "Milwaukee Journal" Milwaukee, Wisconsin, daily newspaper: In October, 1967, the Chicago Crime Commission issued a comprehensive report concerning the crime syndicate and listed the names of 214 persons which the Commission said were either members of the Mafia or "fellow travelers." Included among the names of the persons so listed was that of RALPH (BOTTLES) CAPONE whose brother AL (SCARFACE) CAPONE allegedly ran the Chicago Mafia in prohibition days. RALPH CAPONE, elder brother of AL CAPONE, was residing at Big Martha Lake, near Mercer, Wisconsin.

MI 94-319

The "Milwaukee Journal," identified above, issue of December 24, 1967, reported the following under a Chicago, Illinois dateline: The Government has refiled a lien seeking payment of $920,473 by RALPH CAPONE, brother of the late Chicago gang boss AL CAPONE, for taxes and interest owed. CAPONE lives at Mercer, Wisconsin. Internal Revenue Service reported that the refiled lien which was filed in Chicago had not been paid on during the time of existence of prior such liens. Internal Revenue Service said a lien would be refiled every six years until the bill was paid. According to the current lien, RALPH CAPONE owed taxes and interest on the sale of distilled spirits from 1921 through 1932, years that the Volstead Act prohibiting liquor sales was in force.
